

SHARED SERVICES LEADERSHIP COALITION NEWS

2022 Shared Services Summit – Aligning Shared Services with the President's Management Agenda

The sixth annual Shared Services Summit, co-sponsored by SSLC and ACT-IAC, is set for Thursday, April 28th at the Renaissance Hotel, 999 9th St NW, Washington, DC. This year's Summit will highlight how shared services can leverage implementation of the President's Management Agenda. We'll also hear success stories from across the public sector and an industry proposal to accelerate implementation progress in the Federal Government. It's been over two years since our community of government and industry shared services zealots has gotten together in person -- this reunion is long overdue! Expectations are high, and we promise you won't be disappointed. Register today! For more information and to register, click here: Summary - Shared Services Summit 2022 \(cvent.com\)

Shared Services Training Program Re-Set for June 21-22, 2022

SSLC's pilot training program, Federal Shared Services: Leveraging a Best Practice to Improve Government, produced in partnership with the Trachtenberg School of Public Policy and Public Administration at the George Washington University, previously announced for March 29-30, has been rescheduled. This 8-hour program will be delivered in two four-hour sessions on back-to-back days, June 21st and 22nd. The program has been designed to educate new hires and emerging leaders in government and industry about how shared services work and deliver value. SSLC and GW have assembled an all-star lineup of industry, government and academic thought leaders to deliver the program in response to a perception of need in our community. For more information and to register in advance and take advantage of our early bird discount, click here.

Shared Services Resiliency Assessed in Academic Research

Last year, our Shared Services Forum community was privileged to receive a presentation from Dr. Thomas Elston of the Blavatnik School of Government, University of Oxford, on his research into shared services resiliency in municipal government functions. His paper was recently in Public Management Review and can be downloaded for free here. It's worth a read, and please share via social media!

SSLC is Going Social – Follow Us and Engage!

SSLC wants to connect with you! Follow us on Twitter @SSLC_Now and LinkedIn at Shared Services Leadership Coalition.

Shared Services Leadership Coalition
8300 Boone Boulevard, Suite 500
Vienna, Virginia 22182

Want to change how you receive these emails?
You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list

Copyright © 2022 Shared Services Leadership Coalition, All rights reserved.